

The World's Biggest Dream Factory

KALEIDOSCOPE ENTERTAINMENT'S
māngal pandey

AAMIR KHAN
TOBY STEPHENS

Indian cinema's global appeal has registered a quantum jump with the advent of crossover films and big budget international productions. Featuring an international cast and woven around historical themes, films like THE RISING and LAGAAN have been huge box office hits.

In 2005, India produced the highest number of films worldwide and sold 3.6 billion movie tickets, a full billion more than Hollywood which sold 2.6 billion tickets.

Spread over 2000 acres, Hyderabad's Ramoji Film City (RFC) is the world's largest integrated film studio complex. RFC offers over 500 set locations. Twenty international films, and nearly forty Indian films can be produced here, simultaneously.

To know more about India, log on to www.ibef.org